Investment Report, July 2016

Dear Friends,

The month of July 2016 saw the benchmark index S&P BSE Sensex gain 3.9% while Nifty 50 gained 4.2%. The Mid-cap index, Nifty Free Float Mid-cap 100 surged 6.9% during the same period.

On the global front, the US Federal Reserve (Fed) in its FOMC meet left the fed funds rate unchanged even as it observed that the near term risks to the US economy had diminished. However, the Fed expects that the economic conditions would warrant only gradual increases in the federal funds rate. Meanwhile the US GDP for the second quarter CY 2016 came in below expectations at 1.2% and the print for the first quarter CY 2016 was revised lower to just 0.8%, further reducing the possibility of any steep rate hike cycle.

In an effort to contain the economic impact post Brexit vote, the Bank of England (BoE) cut interest rates for the first time since 2009, revived its bond-buying programme and said it would take "whatever action is necessary" to achieve stability. BoE cut its main lending rate to a record low 0.25% from 0.5%, in line with market expectations and raised the target for quantitative easing through government bond purchases to £435 billion from the £375 billion earlier. BoE expects growth to stagnate in the second half of 2016 but avoid a post-Brexit recession and kept the full-year forecast unchanged at 2%. However, the growth forecast for 2017 was slashed to 0.8% from 2.3% while the 2018 growth forecast was lowered to 1.8% from 2.3%.

Meanwhile, the Bank of Japan (BoJ) left the interest rate and the quantum of government securities purchases unchanged even as it effected an increase in the annual purchase of ETFs. Japan's cabinet approved a government stimulus package as part of an overall spending program, which has a total value of JPY 28 tn (USD276 bn) over several years.

On the domestic front, in a landmark development, the Indian Parliament passed the Constitution (122nd Amendment) (GST) Bill. The amendment to the constitution will have to be ratified by at least 50% of the states over the next few months, which would provide a constitutional backing to the formation of the GST Council. Following this, parliament and state legislatures will need to pass GST bills that will detail the central and state GSTs with the GST Council deciding on the GST rates as well as the classification of goods based on the rates.

Overall the passage of GST reform is likely to be growth supportive through efficiency gains and lower effective tax rate and would enable the expansion of the tax base and simplify the tax structure with an inbuilt compliance mechanism. While the GST would accelerate GDP growth and increase the ratio of tax to GDP in the medium term, its near-term impact on inflation will depend on the eventual GST rate and slabs.

The fiscal deficit in April-June 2016 period was 61% of the FY2017 budget estimate with gross tax collections growing by 30.6% led by a 34.5% increase in Indirect tax collections on the back of robust excise duty collection even as direct taxes grew 26%, largely on account of buoyant income tax collections. Total expenditure increased 18.8% with non-plan expenditure increasing 15.3% and plan expenditure registering a growth of 28.2%.

The cumulative rainfall in the south west monsoon for the period June 1st-July 27th was at 1% surplus. Out of the 36 sub-divisions across India, 11 have received excess rainfall, 17 have received normal rainfall, and eight have received deficient rainfall.

Kharif (summer crop) acreage as of July 29th was 6.3% higher than the same period prior year with rice sowing acreage 2.8% higher, coarse cereals' acreage 4.1% higher, oilseed acreage 8% higher and pulses acreage surging 41% as compared to the prior year. However, there has been a reduction in the cotton acreage. Robust monsoon rainfall in the month of July, in addition to enabling a higher acreage of Kharif crops has raised expectations of a higher crop productivity as well.

Trade deficit in the month of June was at USD 8.1 bn; higher than USD6.3 bn in May. The growth in goods exports in June turned positive for the first time in 18 months as it registered an increase of a modest 1.3% on a year on year basis led by an improvement in non-commodity exports. The widening of trade deficit in June was on the back of a smaller decline in goods imports at 7.3% year on year as against a much sharper decline of 13.2% year on year in the prior month. In terms of commodity composition, oil imports increased in June on higher global crude oil prices even as gold imports slowed down.

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) inflation for June 2016 came in at 5.8%, largely in line with the market expectation and similar to the CPI inflation registered in the prior month. June CPI inflation print reflected the sustained inflationary pressures seen in food products. While the headline CPI inflation in June was stable, core inflation eased to 4.5% despite a hike in service tax. Wholesale Price Index (WPI) inflation for June 2016 was at 1.6% as against the 0.8% in the prior month. This is the third positive WPI inflation print after 17 consecutive months of negative WPI inflation. Going forward, many market experts expect the food inflation to trend lower on account of the good progress of the monsoons in terms of spatial and temporal distribution and various supply management measures from the government.

Given the improving macroeconomic backdrop, we believe that the equity market offers a reasonable entry point for a long-term investor with a 3-5 year view.

Equity Market Outlook

The month of July 2016 saw the benchmark index S&P BSE Sensex gain 3.9% while Nifty 50 gained 4.2%. The Mid-cap index, Nifty Free Float Mid-cap 100 surged 6.9% during the same period.

The FIIs were net buyers with inflows of around USD 1.7 bn in the month of July 2016 and the DIIs were net sellers to the tune of USD 0.9 bn with insurance companies' net sellers to the tune of around USD 0.86 bn even as domestic mutual funds were marginal net sellers to the tune of USD 0.04 bn.

The stellar performance of the Indian equity market in the month of July was on the back of global cues such as better than expected US jobs data, expectation of fiscal stimulus from Japan and a sharp fall in international crude oil prices. On the domestic front, satisfactory progress in the south west monsoon and higher sowing acreages of Kharif (summer crop) increased the possibility of a recovery in rural demand. Market experts project double digit earnings growth for companies comprising Nifty 50 index for the fiscal 2017 and 2018.

The Indian government intends to implement the landmark reform, Goods & Services Tax (GST) from April 1st, 2017, a challenging timeline, considering that a significant amount of legislative and administrative process remains to be completed. Early indications suggest sectors such as automobiles, consumer durables as well as media and entertainment would be positively impacted while marginally negative impact is likely in sectors such as telecom, though the actual outcomes would be dependent on the levels and slabs of the GST.

In a positive development, the government announced additional capital of ₹229 bn in FY 2017 for public sector banks out of which 75% was earmarked for immediate release while the remaining 25% was expected to be linked to the performance of individual banks' on parameters pertaining to efficiency, growth and cost reduction. The front-loading of the capital infusion enables the public sector banks to clean up their books at a faster pace.

The RBI has finalized the 'on tap' licensing norms for universal banks. This move from the RBI is expected to expand the market and make the banking sector more competitive benefiting the end consumer while making it more challenging for incumbents as they deal with more competition, newer business models amidst rising costs.

The government has been focused on increasing spending on infrastructure through targeted public spends particularly in road, power and railways. This approach combined with a keen thrust on timely implementation of the big ticket infra projects can unleash a higher economic multiplier, which in turn can accelerate the GDP growth benefiting a slew of sectors.

Going forward, the consumption demand is expected to pick up led by rural demand recovery on the back of robust monsoons as well as the seventh pay commission payouts to central government employees. A host of sectors would also benefit from lower interest rates as liquidity remains benign even as monetary policy remains accommodative.

Given the improving macro-economic backdrop, we believe that the equity market offers a reasonable entry point for a long-term investor with a 3-5 year view.

Debt Market Outlook

Debt market in the month of July 2016 saw the benchmark 10 year Government security (G-sec) close the month at 7.16%, easing by 29 bps over the month even as the 30 year G-sec eased by 34 bps during the same period. On the corporate bond side, the 10 year AAA corporate bond closed the month at around 7.82%, easing by 39 bps over the month.

In the month of July, the Foreign Portfolio Investors (FPIs) were buyers of Indian debt to the extent of USD 1.1 bn.

The broad based fall in the fixed income yields in India in the month of July across the yield curve was on the back of falling global yields post Brexit, falling international crude oil prices and robust south west monsoon. The RBI's commitment to keep money market liquidity at near neutral levels by injecting liquidity through net Open Market Operations (OMO) provided a favorable backdrop for the easing in yields.

The liquidity conditions eased significantly during the months of June and July on the back of increased spending by the government which more than offset the reduction in market liquidity because of higher-than-usual currency demand. The injection of durable liquidity through purchases under open market operations (OMOs), amounting to ₹805 bn thus far, also helped in easing liquidity conditions.

In a key development, the government has set the inflation target at 4% (+/-) 2% until March 31st, 2021, in a wide range, in order to allow the monetary policy committee to recognize the trade-off between inflation and growth in the short term while enabling them to pursue the inflation target in the long term. The government's decision to formally adopt the inflation target adds credibility and transparency to policy making and ensures continuity of the policy objectives over the medium term while institutionalizing monetary policy framework.

The third Bi monthly policy review of the RBI left the repo rate unchanged at 6.5% even as it reiterated its commitment to provide liquidity as required and progressively lower the average liquidity deficit in the system to a position closer to neutrality.

The RBI was concerned that the recent sharper-than-anticipated increase in food prices led by pulses had pushed up the projected trajectory of inflation over the rest of the year even as there were early indications of a softening in prices of vegetables. Going forward, the RBI expected that the strong improvement in sowing on the back of the monsoon's steady progress, along with supply management measures, would moderate food inflation. However, the RBI noted the uncertainty around the trajectory of inflation excluding food and fuel on account of the full implementation of the recommendations of the 7th central pay commission (CPC) on allowances. On balance, the RBI cautioned that there could be upside risks to its inflation projection of 5% by March 2017.

On the growth front, the RBI expected more momentum due to the normal monsoon enabling stronger agricultural growth and rural demand as well as by the stimulus to consumption spending expected from the disbursement of pay, pension and arrears following the implementation of the 7th CPC's award. Moreover, the RBI opined that the current accommodative stance of monetary policy and comfortable liquidity conditions would also provide a congenial environment for the uptick in aggregate demand conditions. However, they expected some headwinds to growth from the continuing sluggishness in world trade points. Accordingly, the RBI retained the GVA growth projection for FY 2017 at 7.6%.

The RBI reiterated its intention to continue its accommodative monetary policy stance even as it planned to provide adequate liquidity. The RBI opined that the easy liquidity conditions were already prompting banks to modestly transmit past policy rate cuts through their MCLR. Moreover, they expect pro-active liquidity management to facilitate more pass-through.

We continue to remain constructive on the fixed income market and believe that the delay in the interest rate hike from the US Federal Reserve will help sustain the easing in Indian fixed income yields. Moreover, the robust south west monsoon augurs well for the fall in food inflation trajectory in the medium term opening up more space for the RBI to nudge the repo rate lower and trigger the next leg of easing in G-sec yields.
